

California Veterinary Medical Reserve Corps

The California Veterinary Medical Reserve Corps (CAVMRC) of the California Veterinary Medical Association (CVMA) is a Unit of the Medical Reserve Corps, a national program of the Office of the Surgeon General and Citizen Corps. The CAVMRC is guided by the Disaster Preparedness Committee of the California Veterinary Medical Association.

Mission:

The CAVMRC preserves animal well-being and protects the public health and welfare by providing emergency veterinary medical care and expertise in all phases of disaster preparedness and response.

Program affiliation:

The CAVMRC is a Medical Reserve Corps Unit under the California Emergency Medical Services Authority and works in cooperation with a broad range of entities including:

- California Veterinary Medical Foundation
- California Department of Food and Agriculture
- California Disaster Health Care Volunteers
- California Animal Response Emergency System
- UC Davis School of Veterinary Medicine
- Western University College of Veterinary Medicine
- California Department of Public Health
- California Emergency Medical Services Authority
- California Governor's Office of Emergency Services
- US Department of Agriculture

Who should join the CAVMRC?

The CAVMRC program provides an opportunity for the entire veterinary practice team to participate, including:

- Veterinarians
- Registered Veterinary Technicians
- Veterinary assistants, office managers and all support staff members
- Students and faculty in California veterinary medical programs
- Animal Control Officers and Shelter Staff working under the supervision of an in-house veterinarian

What are the benefits of being a CAVMRC member?

- Training opportunities (most with CE credits) that allow you to strengthen your personal skills to better serve your practice, your community and animals displaced or affect by disasters. Much of the CE is free.
- Certificates for training completion to display in your place of business and to add to your resume.
- Updates from the CAVMRC and state agencies concerning information and events pertaining to general and animal health emergency issues.
- "Fast track" into disaster deployment at the local and state levels based on pre-credentialing and affiliation.
- Networking and information sharing opportunities with veterinary team members across the state.
- Satisfaction in knowing that you are making a difference for animals and for your community when you provide vital veterinary services for animals during emergencies and disasters

How do I join the CAVMRC?

To join the CAVMRC, visit the CAVMRC website at www.cavmrc.net, download the simple and easy Quick Registration form, fill it out and return it to the CVMA at the address or fax provided. To receive additional information on the unit, training and registration, contact the CAVMRC Unit Coordinator at 916-649-0599.

Remember, free membership is extended to the entire veterinary practice team.

Deployment:

When you become a member of the CAVMRC, the unit coordinator will create a profile for you on a secure website called the Disaster Healthcare Volunteers site. It is managed by the California Emergency Medical Services Authority. Included in your website profile is your contact information, which the CAVMRC can use to contact you in the event of a local or statewide disaster or emergency. The system is secure and your information is only seen by your unit coordinator. You will be granted access to your profile so that you may login to the website and update your information as needed. It is important to keep all of your contact information up to date in your web profile.

Training:

Required training: The CAVMRC will direct new members to online self-guided, self-paced training modules presented by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA.) Each module takes about 30-45 minutes to read and ends with a quiz. When you pass, you will receive a Certificate of Completion. CAVMRC members are required to complete the following training to become regular unit members:

1. Incident Command System (IS-100) Classroom or FEMA Independent Study (online)
2. Incident Command System (IS-200) Classroom or FEMA Independent Study (online)

Additional recommended training includes:

1. National Incident Management System (IS-700) Classroom or FEMA Independent Study (online)
2. Animals in Disaster, Modules A & B, (IS 10 & 11) FEMA Independent Study (online)
3. Livestock in Disasters (IS-111) FEMA Independent Study (online)

The CAVMRC also tries to provide several classroom trainings each year. In many cases approved continuing education courses are free to members.

Unit Membership

For credentialing purposes, all members and trainees will be classified as:

1. Veterinarians (graduate with DVM or equivalent degree)
2. Veterinary technicians (for registered veterinary technicians)
3. Veterinary support personnel (for all others including Animal Control and Shelter Staff)
4. Students

Unit members may be asked to submit evidence of education, licensing and certification for credentialing purposes. Unit members may also undergo criminal background checks through the California Bureau of Investigation.
